INSTALLING A BACK-UP BATTERY

If AC power fails, the clock radio's Battery Sentinel back-up power system continues to operate the clock for up to 8 hours with the display turned off to conserve power. This lets the alarm sound for at least 10 minutes at the preset time, even if AC power fails.

Your clock radio requires a 9-volt battery (not supplied) for back-up power. For the best performance and longest life, we recommend a RadioShack alkaline battery.

Caution: Use only a fresh battery of the required size and recommended type.

1. Press the battery compartment cover's tab, then lift off the cover.
2. Snap the battery onto the connector and place it in the compartment.
3. Replace the cover.

When the BATTERY SENTINEL icon  appears, replace the battery.

Warning: Dispose of old batteries promptly and properly. Do not bury or burn them.

Caution: Always remove an old or weak battery. Battery can leak chemicals that can destroy electronic parts.

Interval Timer — lets you set a timer for up to 2 hours; ideal for naps. See “Using the Interval Timer.”

SLEEP — lets you set the radio so it plays as you fall asleep, then automatically turns off. See “Using Sleep” on Page 3.

Backlit Display — lets you see the time in a dark room.

3-Inch Speaker — provides excellent radio fidelity.
